De Gaulle: Liberté is the conclusion to an epic story of French liberation in WWII, covering the wartime leader's career as he ascends to political dominance.

It's 1943 and victory has created a new danger: France may be liberated without being allowed to determine its own political future.

Liberté takes us from De Gaulle's growing international celebrity, or indeed notoriety, as the exiled keeper of the Free French flame, to the triumph of the D-Day landings and the liberation of France.

FATHERLAND (12A)

In 1949, Erika, an actress, writer and rally driver, is accompanying her father, Nobel laureate author Thomas Mann, on a literary tour through West and East Germany. As family tragedy strikes, it becomes apparent that the spiritual healing Mann deems essential for the divided country may be necessary for their own relationship. It's an impeccably shot and evocative drama that meditates on the healing process for a fractured national identity.
